Probler P2 Plural-Component Air-Purge Gun

September 26, 2012

Dear Graco Distributor,

As part of our commitment to continuous improvements, we have upgraded several components on the Probler P2 plural-component air-purge gun, in order to increase the pressure rating of the gun from 3200psi to 3500psi.

All changes only apply to the standard P2 gun. No changes have been made to the P2 Elite. The series code on the P2 gun has been updated to revision C. All new P2 guns being shipped from Graco now include the following changes:

1. New ISO and RES side blocks, part numbers 16N599 and 16N600.

- These new blocks allow for the filter to be removed without having to remove the side block from the gun.
- The new blocks are backwards compatible with older P2 guns. The old part numbers are now obsolete and have been superseded with new part numbers.

2. New filter housing, part number 16P010.

- The new filter housing is only compatible with the new side blocks. Customers with the old side blocks should continue to purchase GC1904. For all customers using the new side blocks, the new filter housing must be used.

3. Upgraded ISO and RES ball valves, part numbers 256459 and 256460.

- The old ball valve, part GC2337 will continue to be sold for all P2 Elite users. All standard P2 users can now upgrade their guns to the new ball valves. To convert to the new valves, you will also need adapter part number 15U395 for each valve.

4. Added 18" air hose to the gun , part 15B772.

In addition, a complete side block upgrade kit has been created, part 24P619. This kit included both the ISO and RES side blocks and two filter housing. The check ball, check ball spring, filter screen, and side seal components are not included in this kit since they are interchangeable between the old and new side blocks.

The table below itemizes the old and new part numbers:
